ANNUAL CONFERENCE

GREETINGS

Welcome to Madison!

Welcome to the Annual Meeting of the Society for Military History. The Wisconsin Veterans Museum and the Wisconsin Department of Veterans Affairs are proud to host this year's gathering. War and Remembrance: Constructing the Military Past and Future is the central theme of the 2002 Annual Meeting. The theme provides a point from which historians can pause to look forward and backward, reflecting upon the use of military forces and military institutions in changing times.

The advent of the new millennium with its unexpected challenges will encourage fresh approaches to the study of military affairs. Yet, the use of historical data in an attempt to understand the background, context, and perspective of important events is likely to be as useful a tool in present times as it has been in the past. Presentations at this year's annual meeting range from The Mongol Art of War, to a session titled Change and War: The Recent Past and the Emerging Future. Sessions on teaching military history through films, military museums, and World War II history courses are also scheduled. The slate of presentations is full, and the range of subject is broad.

Please take time to enjoy yourselves and to venture around Madison discovering its many attractions.

SPEAKERS

RICK ATKINSON

Rick Atkinson, assistant managing editor for investigations at The Washington Post, will present a special address at the banquet. His talk titled, "Bringing Back the Dead: History, Memory and Writing About War," will focus on writing narrative non-fiction and will draw largely from his current work-in-progress on the American Army in North Africa in 1942-1943. Atkinson is the author of two best-selling books, The Long Gray Line, a narrative account about West Point's class of 1966, and Crusade, a narrative history of the Persian Gulf War.

EDWARD M. COFFMAN

Edward M. Coffman, Professor of History Emeritus, University of Wisconsin-Madison & former president of the Society, will present an address at the awards luncheon. In addition to teaching U.S. military history at the University of Wisconsin for more than thirty years, Coffman has authored three major works including The Hilt of the Sword: The Career of Peyton C. March; The War to End All Wars, the authoritative account of American involvement in World War I; and The Old Army.

WISCONSIN VETERANS MUSEUM HISTORY

MILESTONES IN HISTORY

1901 G.A.R. Museum is established through legislation mandating the creation of a veterans museum in the Wisconsin State Capitol.

1904 State Capitol building burns to the ground.

1914 New State Capitol building opens.

1918 G.A.R. Memorial Hall Museum in the Capitol is officially dedicated.

1945 Museum placed under administrative control of Wisconsin Department of Veterans Affairs

1985 Plans devised to convert the G.A.R. Museum into a legislative hearing room. Search is begun for a suitable site on the Capitol Square to honor Wisconsin Veterans from all wars.

1989 In November, G.A.R. Museum in the Capitol closes. On December 7, 1989, Governor Tommy Thompson approves plans for a new facility.

1993 On June 6, 1993, the Wisconsin Veterans Museum officially opens. 7716 visitors tour the museum during the grand opening.

1994 Museum wins national award for exhibition excellence.

1998 The second floor of 30 West Mifflin Street is converted into a state-of-the-art, 3,100 sq. ft. museum public programs space.

1999 The Wisconsin Veterans Museum acquires the Wisconsin National Guard Museum at Camp Douglas.

2001 The museum expands its research center and creates new archival and library storage areas, as well as work spaces and a conservation lab on the third floor of 30 West Mifflin Street. A significant portion of the new space is allocated to house the Wisconsin National Guard resource center.

2002 Wisconsin National Guard Museum library and archival collection are relocated to Wisconsin Veterans Museum.
