78TH ANNUAL MEETING

SOCIETY FOR MILITARY HISTORY

Ways of War

June 9–12, 2011

Hosted by the
First Division Museum at Cantigny
Wheaton, Illinois

WELCOME

The 2011 Society for Military History Program Committee welcomes you to the annual conference. The conference theme, "Ways of War," attracted a diverse array of panels and papers focused on the social, cultural, strategic, political, and tactical aspects of warfare, evidence that military history is thriving. In addition to accepting complete panels, the committee crafted panels from over 40 individual paper submissions to increase the opportunities for members, especially junior scholars, to participate. The panels on getting published and public sector jobs also aim to serve those beginning their careers. The committee sought to diversify the program with a wide range of topics and chronological periods, as well as different session formats. The program includes traditional panels, roundtables with guided discussion, and for the first time sessions with pre-circulated papers that the audience can read in advance so that session time is devoted to discussion with the presenters. The pre-circulated papers are available and password-protected on the conference webpage through the end of the conference. We are very excited by the rich content of this program and hope that you enjoy it.

Welcome to Cantigny, the greater Chicago area, and the 78th meeting of the Society for Military History. We have worked hard to coordinate the best possible conference. We hope you enjoy it. We want to acknowledge and thank the Society leadership team and especially executive director Bob Berlin; the program committee under the leadership of Jennifer Keene; and the staff of the Hilton Lisle/Naperville hotel for all they have done to make this a great event! We also want to thank the Pritzker Military Library for their sponsorship of the welcoming reception, which we hope you all attend.

We hope that you'll come visit the First Division Museum on Cantigny Park while you're here. Cantigny is the site of our banquet on Saturday and there are field trips to Cantigny throughout your stay. Cantigny is the historic home of our benefactor, Colonel Robert R. McCormick, owner and publisher of the Chicago Tribune from 1911 to his death in 1955. Second only to the Tribune in the Colonel's heart was the First Division of the U.S. Army, with which he served in World War I. That's why there is a first-class military museum and archive on Cantigny. Cantigny is part of the Robert R. McCormick Foundation.

We hope you find some of the innovations of this conference interesting and worthwhile — the exhibits by military history organizations, the sessions with pre-circulated papers, the panel of soldiers from the 1st Infantry Division discussing their experiences in the current conflicts. Note that participants and their e-mail addresses are listed by session in your welcome packet as a way for members to connect with one another after the conference ends. These activities and more, and the program of sessions, have all been assembled to make this an outstanding meeting for an outstanding Society.

We're glad to have you here! If there is anything my staff or I can do for you, please bring it to our attention.

Sincerely,

Paul H. Herbert
Executive Director,
First Division Museum at Cantigny

COMMAND CULTURE
Officer Education in the U. S. Army and the German Armed Forces, 1901–1940, and the Consequences for World War II
JÖRG MUTH

Muth examines the different paths the two countries took to select, educate, and promote their officers in the crucial time before World War II. He connects successfully the pre-World War II officer education of the U. S. Army and its traditions and culture with the conduct of the War against Terror today. "The work is highly original in both its research design and its presentation. The general message, though controversial and certain to lead to arguments, is buttressed by substantial evidence. Muth's topic has immediate present-day relevance."—Gerhard Weinberg, author of A World at Arms. 368 pp. 31 b&w illus. Hardcover $29.95

CALL FOR PAPERS

The Politics of War

79th Annual Meeting of the Society for Military History
Arlington, VA, 10-13 May 2012

The Society for Military History is pleased to announce its call for papers for the 79th Annual Meeting hosted by the Army Historical Foundation in Arlington, Virginia, 10-13 May 2012.

The conference theme is "The Politics of War," highlighting the transition from war to peace, civil-military relations, the dynamics of coalition warfare and the problems of military government and occupation. We encourage a diverse group of participants and especially encourage junior scholars to present their work and to serve on panels. As always, the program committee will consider all panel and paper proposals dealing with important questions of military history.

Panel proposals must include a panel title, contact information for all panelists, a brief description of the purpose and theme of the panel, a one-paragraph abstract of each of the papers, a one-page curriculum vita of each panelist, including commentator and chair, and contact information. All presenters, chairs, and commentators must be SMH members at the time of the 2012 meeting. Proposals for individual papers are welcome and should include a brief abstract, a one-page curriculum vita, and contact information. Proposals must be submitted electronically to the conference coordinator, Mr. Matt Seelinger(matt.seelinger@armyhistory.org).

The meeting will be held in the Hyatt Regency Crystal City Hotel in Arlington, Virginia. It is easily accessible by Metro and from Ronald Reagan Washington National Airport.

Deadline for proposals is 1 November 2011.
